To whom it may concern:

When we were in the market to replace and update the sound system in our church, there were many options available. We talked, researched, listened, and then would start the process all over again. Centerline was like a breath of fresh air. The products they provided were amazing but most of all the knowledge they possessed of knowing exactly what we needed was the deal breaker. The end result has been beyond what we ever imagined it could be. They have given us what we needed to rock the house. Exactly what a church needs to do.
